

1. Your first tee shot at Riverside is best placed down the left side of the fairway. Be careful to avoid the fairway bunkers on the left. Your approach should be aimed to the middle of the green and avoid the deep bunkers that guard it on all sides.

2. A short straightaway par 4 requires an accurate tee-shot down the middle to avoid the fairway bunkers on the left. The approach is the challenge as you must select the right club to get it close on this very long green.

3. The first of many shots across the Columbia River, this short hole is a challenge when the pin is located to the right behind the sand. Do not be short, but make sure you do not over club as this green is not very deep.

4. A good risk-reward hole, the first par 5 on the course is a sharp dogleg left. How much you want to cut off the corner is the risk, but a shorter second shot is the reward. Best to stick to the fairway and then avoid the sand around the green on your approach.

6. The shortest par 5 gives you a good chance at birdie with a long straight drive favoring the right side of the fairway. If you are laying up, aim for the left side of the fairway to give yourself the best approach. If you are thinking of going for it in 2, check the pin location as the back right is significantly more difficult.

7. Sharp dogleg right will play to the strength of the left to right hitter. Be careful to avoid the fairway bunker or your approach to this very wide but shallow green becomes even more difficult. The sand in front of the green should also be avoided at all costs.

8. The soothing sound of the Columbia River to the right of the entire hole should bring you comfort as this is the only par 3 that doesn't cross water from the tee. Select the correct club as this long par 3 has a large two-tiered green protected by sand traps on both sides.

9. The finish to the front 9 sends you back towards the clubhouse with a generous landing area. On your approach there is a large pond that forces you to carry the entire length or bail out to the left. Watch out for the deep bunkers that surround the green.

LOCAL RULES

Rules of RCGA govern all play except where modified by local rules.

- Please read all the rules and follow the etiquette of golf.
- Please replace divots, rake sand traps, and repair ball marks on greens.
- Free drop from all cart paths, roads, fences, course signs, containers, flower beds, and protective netting.
- Please respect private property.
- Dress Code in effect.
- Golf carts must remain well away from greens and tees (min. 30 ft). Drivers must obey all signs. Carts must not be driven in treed areas.
- Out of bounds defined by fences and white stakes. Please use the OB/lost ball local rule and drop in the fairway.

Note: Please keep the Pace of Play within the course designated time and cooperate with the Player Assistant at all times.

10. The back 9 starts with a short, uphill, dogleg left par 4 that will yield some good scores if played correctly. Aim for just left of the 150 yard mark for the best position on this wide fairway. The challenge is on the steep, two-tiered green with significant break.

11. One of the toughest holes on the course, this long par 4 is difficult from tee to green. The tee shot is best played left of centre on the sloped fairway as you will want to avoid the OB to the right. Do not underestimate how much your putt will break on this difficult green.

12. This is another challenging par 4, but because of the downhill, can play much shorter than the yardage indicates. Hit the fairway and you will be rewarded with a fair approach to this wide green. Shots that are hit short and right will catch the big bunker in the front.

13. The elevated teeshot may seem intimidating due to the river, trees and sand that spot the landscape of this par 3. There are many safe landing areas however, as the green is large with forgiving bailout spots to the left and short right.

14. This continuous dogleg right par 5 is the epitome of a risk and reward hole. The horseshoe shape rewards the aggressive golfer as yardage can be saved by cutting corners. The safe play, and often the wisest, would be to follow the fairway around the river to the large two-tiered green.

15. The final par 3 features one more short carry of the river. The lengthy green can be difficult to hit as it is guarded closely by bunkers on both sides. Putting can also be tricky on the sloping green.

16. A short dogleg right par 4 is relatively easy off the tee, with a wide open fairway and only a few trees to the right. The challenge is at the green with lots of sand traps and a difficult sloping putting surface.

17. This long par 4 features an intimidating teeshot with water to the right of the fairway. The approach shot seems difficult, but the sand only comes into play on shots that come up short as the back of the green is quite wide.

18. Long and confident hitters can cut some yardage off this difficult hole by going over the river, but the safe play is to hit right and short of the fairway bunker. Second shots should be aimed for the 150 yard marker and approach shots should be aimed for the centre of the green. We hope you enjoyed your day at Riverside and will visit us again soon!
